A HISTORY OF TRUST

Lawyers Title was founded in 1925, withstood the Great Depression and ranked among America's few leading title companies by World War II. During the post-war boom, Lawyers Title experienced dynamic growth and became the first title company operating nationwide. In the decades since, Lawyers Title has enhanced its reputation for continued success in economic conditions good and bad. Now we are stronger than ever before.

STRENGTH

A proud member of the Fidelity National Financial, Inc. (NYSE: FNF) family of title companies, which collectively represent the largest title insurance and escrow services company in the world. Thanks to our national presence and long history of trust, we have financial stability for decades to come. With 52% Oregon market share, ranked #293 Fortune 500 Company in 2017 (highest ranked in the title industry) and $1.48 billion in reserves, rest assured, when the "turn in the road" arises and increased claims follow...we'll be there.

WELCOME TO OREGON

Founded in 1859, Oregon was the 33rd state in the country to gain statehood, most notably from the longest westward expansion route (2,200 miles) famously known as The Oregon Trail. Lewis and Clark helped pave the way for miners, fur traders, and families alike to expand westward into our neighboring states. Aside from great food, rain, and "keeping it weird," Oregon is best known for our timber industry, technology (Intel and Tektronix), and Nike Inc. Founded in 1971 right here in Portland, Nike has grown into a worldwide leader in athletic footwear and apparel. The infamous logo was designed at Portland State University. Thanks to the Cascade Range's fertile and wet climate conditions, Oregon is the perfect place to grow and harvest lumber, and is a leader in lumber production in the region as well as the country. Oregon is the number one producer of Christmas trees in the United States annually.

Our official state fish is the Chinook salmon (the largest of the Pacific salmons) and the official state animal is the beaver, both of which are indigenous to the area. One of Oregon's unofficial nicknames is the "Beaver State." Oregon's rich soil is responsible for producing 99% of the entire U.S. hazelnut production, and in 1989, the hazelnut became our official state nut.

To the east is Oregon's Hells Canyon, the deepest river gorge in North America at 8,000 feet deep, carved out by the Snake River. At 11,239 feet, Mount Hood stands as the tallest peak in Oregon and remains a dormant volcano. Renowned for its pristine blue color and formed by the collapse of a volcano around 7,700 years ago, Crater Lake is close to 2,000 feet deep, making it the deepest lake in the U.S. and one of the top 10 deepest lakes in the world. The Oregon coast features a 235-foot-tall intertidal structure known as Haystack Rock, which is believed to be the third tallest in the world. While our oceans may be too cold for swimming, the natural surroundings and plentiful wildlife create its own raw and unique beauty.

Spot Light on Real Estate: Portland's Pittock Mansion

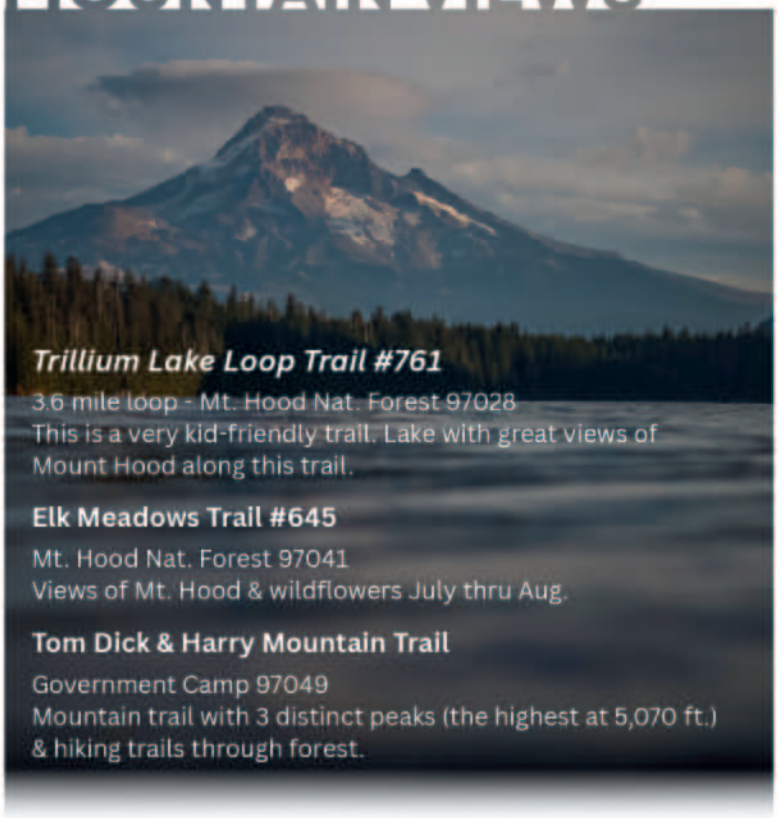

Perhaps Portland's best known and most well regarded real estate improvement is Pittock Mansion. Its 46 rooms rise on 46 acres planted liberally with gardens. Some host heritage roses, maintained in honor of the mansion's first mistress and avid gardener, Georgiana Pittock. Georgiana and her husband, Henry, the editor of The Oregonian newspaper, began the sandstone mansion's construction in 1912 on a design by San Francisco architect Edward T. Foulkes. His design is characterized as a French Renaissance-style chateau. The Pittocks moved into the mansion in 1914, not long before Georgiana's death in 1918 and Henry's in 1919. In 1964 the City of Portland purchased the estate from the Pittock family for $225k, of which $67k came from citizen donations. The mansion was opened to the public in 1965. Visitors now enjoy diverse and stunning interior decorations and remarkable views from the mansion's elevation at 1,000 feet, near the crest of Portland's West Hills, looking East to downtown and, on clear days, to peaks of the Cascade Mountains. Pittock Mansion is operated by the Pittock Mansion Society in collaboration with Portland Parks & Recreation. Source: Pittock Mansion's official website.
